Overview

Ian Connors is an associate attorney in the Providence office of Boyle | Shaughnessy Law, where he represents insurers and insureds in a broad range of civil litigation matters. His practice focuses on insurance defense, involving a wide variety of claims and legal issues across multiple areas of liability.

Ian brings a well-rounded perspective to his defense practice, having previously represented plaintiffs in a variety of matters, including personal injury, employment, and discrimination claims. Through this experience, he developed the ability to manage cases from intake through resolution, including evaluating liability, analyzing medical records, navigating insurance coverage issues, and negotiating settlements. This background provides him with valuable insight into plaintiff strategy and case valuation.

Ian earned his Juris Doctor from Roger Williams University School of Law and holds a bachelor's degree in economics and political science from the University of Rhode Island.

He is admitted to practice in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, and New Hampshire.
