Overview

Matthew H. Greene is a shareholder at Boyle | Shaughnessy Law where he has extensive experience successfully defending clients in cases involving professional liability, employment practices, construction litigation, product liability, dram shop litigation, and personal injury litigation. He has experience in handling complex matters including wrongful death and traumatic brain injury cases, as well as representing legal professionals during investigations by the Massachusetts Board of Bar Overseers.

Matthew also has experience representing insurance and reinsurance companies in insurance coverage disputes, including bad faith claims under Massachusetts General Laws chapter 93A and chapter 176D.

Matthew represents a diverse range of clients including attorneys accused of legal malpractice, various professionals covered under errors & omissions insurance policies including accountants, engineers and real estate brokers, regional, national and international corporations, educational institutions, construction contractors, and manufacturers and distributors of products, both domestic and foreign. Matthew also serves as plaintiff's counsel to insurers for property and casualty subrogation claims. On multiple occasions, Matthew has been appointed as a Special Assistant Attorney General to defend state, county and municipal organizations in civil lawsuits, including the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office and the Massachusetts Securities Division.

Matthew also frequently gives presentations to insurers and trade groups regarding claims handling practices, exposure risks and strategic considerations in defending lawsuits.

Matthew has recently been appointed to a three-year term as a Hearing Officer for the Massachusetts Board of Bar Overseers. The BBO is an independent administrative body established by the Supreme Judicial Court to investigate and evaluate complaints against attorneys. Hearing Officers sit in panels of three as fact-finding tribunals in disciplinary proceedings brought against individual attorneys by the Office of Bar Counsel. They hear testimony, take evidence, make adjudicatory rulings and, with the assistance of a Board attorney, prepare written reports and recommendations for the Board of Bar Overseers.
