Overview

Olivia Pellegrini is an Associate in the Providence, RI office of Boyle | Shaughnessy Law. Olivia handles a variety of cases defending claims involving personal injury, contractual disputes, professional liability, and property damage, among others. Olivia is currently admitted in Rhode Island state court.

Olivia graduated from Roger Williams University School of Law in May 2024. While studying there, she participated in the school's immigration clinic representing indigent, undocumented immigrants to help them secure legal status. She also interned with a local Family Law firm assisting clients with divorce and custody issues as well as aiding Court Appointed Special Advocates in Family Court in Providence. Olivia also worked as a Rule 9 Student Attorney at Rhode Island Legal Services representing indigent tenants against wrongful evictions.

Olivia graduated from Providence College cum laude in May 2019. She majored in English Literature and had a course focus in Sociology. While working at a law firm as an administrator during the Covid-19 lockdowns, Olivia was inspired to earn her Juris Doctorate so she could directly represent clients.
